GAVE AWAY THE BABY.

A Young Mother Was Deeply Distressed, but Her Love Was Not Strong.

Saturday afternoon, about 4:30 o'clock, as Mrs. Martha Holt and several companions were picking greens near the Belt railroad bridge over White river near the Indiana avenue pike, they noticed a young woman sitting on the east abutment weeping bitterly. She was thinly clad and held a small bundle in her arms, at which she gazed with a worn and pathetic expression. Mrs. Holt accosted her and asked what was the trouble. The young woman replied that she was in deep trouble, but would not state what the trouble was. On being asked her name and where she lived, she replied: "I have no home and no name but the one I have dishonored, and that I won't tell." Mrs. Holt then asked her what was in the bundle. The woman answered by unfolding the bundle, disclosing a girl baby about a month old, and which acted as if under the influence of a drug. "What are you going to do with it?" asked Mrs. Holt. "God knows," replied the woman, as tears alid down her cheeks. "Give it to me," said Mrs. Holt. The woman rose suddenly, put the baby in Mrs. Holt's arms and ran away rapidly towards Emerichtown. She gave no sign of re-gret at parting, and seemed as if relieved when Mrs. Holt took the baby. Mrs. Holt took the baby to her home in Indianola, near the street-car stables, and clothed is warmly. Yesterday afternoon she decided to take the baby to the police station and see if the officers had any clew as to its mother. On the way she met a patrolman and offered to give it to him. He declined it and directed her to the police station. The baby was afterwards taken to the Orphans' Home on College avenue.

A Convict's New Trial. Warden Patten, of the southern penitentlary, at Jeffersonville, was in the city yesterday afternoon for a few hours with John Lewis, a prisoner at the penitentiary for ten months, whom the warden was taking to Connersville. About a year ago Lewis was in company with a friend who got into a row and was murdered. With conflicting evidence Lewis was in some manner shown to have been a party to the row and was sentenced to serve two years in the penitentiary. He had served ten Deer, Mansur & Co., implement dealers, of Moline, Ill., were yesterday awarded judgment against C. B. Howland, the surviving member of the firm of Howland & Johnson, for $648. Conneil Fails to Pass the Ordinances by the Required Two-Thirds Majority -Pesthonse Ordinance.

The Alabama-street improvement ordinances failed to pass the Council by the required two-thirds vote when they came up at the special meeting last night. When the session was called to order there were five absent members. Before the vote on the first ordinance was taken, however, all had taken their seats save Messrs. Krauss and Raub. When the report of the committee was in order, Mr. Drew handed up the majority report, which was as fol-

"Your committee to whom was referred general ordinances Nos. 23 and 24, 1894, concerning Alabama-street improvements, beg leave to report: That the city charter, in specifying who may remonstrate against rmed or modified resolutions for street improvements does not confer upon any re-monstrator the right to interfere with the tind of improvement decided upon. The details of the work are open for discussion, and the character of the improvement can be amended before the Board of Public Works have confirmed or modified the reslution. After that time the remonstrance can only be legally made with a view to topping the entire improvements. If this feature of the city charter causes hardship to the taxpayers, it can be amended by the Legislature, but the City Council has no right to abrogate the charter in this respect, nor to make any law not waranted by the charter. popular idea that it was expected to listen to the individual opinions and wishes of the remonstrators as to the kind of improvements to be made, and to procure inormation in various ways as to the most desirable improvements, the elative cost, etc., and we have done considerable work in that direction that may be of value, but it has no place in this report. We hear no complaint that the Board of Public Works has failed to consider the wishes of the remonstrators up to the time the resolu-tions were amended or confirmed. No claim is made that they have not had a re-spectful hearing, but the charter provides that the character of the street improve-ments finally ordered shall be decided by the board, and not by the abutting property owners nor by the City Council. The imuestion for you to consider is whether Alabama street needs improving, and we can report that it does. Any member has but to see the condition of the street to decide that no documentary evidence is required to confirm this report in that particular. The improvement ordered by the board is about what has been adopted in this city heretofore, and it is the same as many other large cities are using at this time, and we can find no good reason for advising you to vote against the ordinance because of the character of the improvement. A continuation of the progressive policy of improving the atreets of this city is of so much importance that no backward step should be taken without good cause. Some consideration should be shown for the people's interests throughout the city, and more than a passing thought given to those who have already paid assessments under this law for street improvements as well as to the abutting property owners on Alabama street. A serious thing to consider is their ability to pay for the street improvements, but the Barrett law modifies the hardships somewhat by extending the time of payment over a period of ten years. We recommend that the ordinances be passed."

At the conclusion of the reading, Mr. Shaffer handed up a minority report. The minority report recommended that the ordinances be stricken from the files. He immediately moved the substitution of the minority for the majority report, but the motion was lost. A motion by Mr. Drew to adopt the majority report was then adopted and the ordinances were read, passed to engrossment and put upon their passage. The ordinance for the improvement of the south section of the street was first voted upon. It was defeated, lacking the two-thirds majority, by the following vote:

Ayes-Colter, Costello, Drew, Hennessy, Kaiser, Koehring, Merritt, O'Brien, Ryan Nays-Allen, Magel, Murphy, Puryear, Schmidt, Snaffer, Stott, Young and Cooper. It will be noticed that the Democrats voted as a unit with the Republicans who favored the improvement. Mr. Stein explained his vote. He said: "I had decided to vote for further consideration of these ordinances, but several of the persons interested came to me and, by threats, attempted to coerce me into voting against the ordinances in this body. I, therefore,

Before the ordinance was put upon its passage Mr. Shaffer handed up a lengthy memorial signed by five property owners, pleading poverty and every other imaginable excuse for their objections. They attacked the system of letting the contracts for public improvements, and said the manner in which bids were called for were deceptive and misleading in that the bids were submitted at a given price a lineal foot, but when the improvement came to be paid for it was found that the total length exceeded the property frontage by about one-fourth the total length of the street. They also thought the city at large had no right to any consideration in the improvement of the street. The names attached to the memorial were Robert W. Long, J. A. Church, David Hazzard, F. A. Bryan and Robert Denny. The vote on the passage of the second ordinance for the improvement of the north section of the street, was lost by the same vote as that for the improvement of The ordinance for the repeal of the former ordinance granting authority to sell the old pest-house site was called up and passed, as was the new ordinance authorizing the sale of the property. Mr. Koehring introduced an ordinance fixing a penalty for throwing stones at or breaking any electric light globe, etc., posting bills or signs upon electric poles or attaching wires to them without the consent of the company. The penalty fixed is a fine of not more than $50. The ordinance was referred to the committee on public property. The ordinance is to prevent the briakage of globes by boys with slings, which the company says has cost them nearly $200 a menth during some seasons of pointed Next Saturday. The educational examination for Democratic members to be appointed to the police force will be held some time during the present week. No definite time for the examination has been set. The Board of Safety has left the question of time solely with the "tired" secretary. The examination will be made within a day or so, and the board will meet Friday afternoon to pass upon the percentages of the applicants, and the appointments will be made on Saturday. Commissioner Conner says there will be enough men appointed to equalize the political division of the force. To do ent Powell wanted twenty more men, and the ten to be appointed would be a sort of Pendergast and the Surgical Institute Some complaints have been made that the new Surgical Institute, at the corner of Tennessee and Ohio streets, is unsafe. The building inspector says the building has not been inspected by him for the reason that the former building inspector almost stood over the building while it was being erected. After its completion it was suggested that he inspect it, but he did not do so because of statements circulated that he was prejudiced against the institution. He says the Mayor inspected it, and gave it as his opinion that it was safe. While Mr. Pendergast was chief fire engineer he condemned the old building, and after the fire there this report was brought Legality of the Health Board. The city attorney will be asked for an opinion as to the legality of the organization of the Board of Health as at present constituted. The charter, which provides selection of a chairman for the Boards of Public Safety and Works, does not provide for the election of a chairman of the Health Board. Under the rules of legal construction, if the present organiza-tion is held to be invalid, the acts of the board heretofore will be legal.

The Tests Postponed.

Yesterlay morning was fixed as the time for making physical tests of members of the police force. The tests were to have been made in Tomlinson Hall, but when the officers arrived there it was found that the steam had not been turned on and it was too cold for the tests, which were postponed. The old men will not be required to come up to the standard adopted, but all new appointees must fill the bill.

The K. of P. Building. The Board of Public Works granted petition of the Knights of Pythias not to cement the sidewalks in front of their property on Massachusetts avenue. The petition requesting that this be done stated that Castle Hall was soon to be construct ed, and the order wanted to put in the walk under private contract as soon as the building was completed.

Granolithic Sidewalks. The Board of Works yesterday took fina action on the following resolutions: For granolithic sidewalks on the east siof Illinois street, from Pearl to Maryland street, and on the west side from Kentucky avenue to Louisiana. For granolithic sidewalks on both sides of Illinois street, from Washington to Ohio

Gas Escaping from Mains. Mrs. Shellsmith, residing at No. 246 East Ohio street, reported that gas was escaping from the mains in the rear of her property to such an extent as to cause the persons residing in the vicinity much uneasiness. A communication was addressed to both gas companies calling their attention to the complaint and asking them to investigate.

Saloon Licenses. The Mayor says he will wait several weeks before revoking any of the saloon keepers' licenses. He says the question of the legality of such a step will first be submitted to the city attorney. The Board of Public Safety will take steps to enforce discipline in the merchant police force. Plenty of Applicants. A number of persons have taken out applications to be filed for the examination for internes at the City Hospital and dispensary. The "tired" secretary refuses to give out the names of those who have filed applications. The time for filing closes at o'clock to-day. Cabinet Meeting Thursday Night. The Mayor has issued a call for a meeting of the cabinet for Thursday night. The question of reclaiming Greenlawn Cemetery will be considered, and Councilman Ryan,

Three Prominent Eastern Ministers in View for a Selection.

So positively has Rev. W. F. Taylor, pastor of the First Baptist Church, fixed upon the third Sunday in May for his retirement as pastor that the deacons and trustees are quietly looking about for a good man to fill his place. One of the deacons said yesterday that the church would not adopt the old-time method of having several candidates preach and then select the one which got the most votes, but would appoint a committee to hear two or three who have been recommended for pastors for the church, and then expect the church membership to abide by the committee's decision. Three different ministers of considerable note have been suggested, one residing in Rochester, N. Y., another in Boston, Mass., and a third at a less important town in Massichusetts, The third one is said to be just the man for the church.

Anti-Liquor League's Request. The Anti-Liquor League has requested the ministers throughout the State to preach next Sunday morning upon the importance of moral purity in public officers, showing that it will the better qualify offi-

PROGRESS OF THE STRIKE.

Painters Declined to Go to Work Yesterday-The Carpenters.

Contrary to the expectations of the contractors, over two hundred painters declined to go to work yesterday morning. The contractors remain obdurate in their decision to pay 25 and 271/2 cents an hour, and the men as stubbornly refuse to accept the divided scale. A committee from the union was to meet the bosses yesterday evening, and on the outcome of this meeting will depend the order for a general There has been no change in the status of the carpenters' strike since Saturday. The decision of the Building Trades Council to aid the carpenters by refusing to allow union men of other trades to work on buildings where nonunion carpenters are employed went into effect yesterday. The contractors show no indication of receding from their offer of 25 cents an hour to carpenters, while the unions claim that additional bosses have signed the union scale.

A Petition to Be Presented Favoring the Transit Company.

The County Commissioners took another turn with street-railway men yesterday. This time it is the Rapid Transit Company, which wants the franchise of Central avenue from Twenty-sixth street to Broad Ripspector Scholl are the only persons in | ple. Frank Johnson, a farmer, living along the proposed line, was before the Commissioners preparing them for a big petition which he will bring in to-day. He says that everybody residing along Central avenue will sign the document. The Commission-ers suggested that it would be a good plan to continue the fair ground line to the Ripple, as it is apparent that the Citizens' company is behind the deal. Mr. Johnson was impressed with the idea, but will not let the suggestion interfere with his petition. The Rapid Transit Company proposes to have its cars running within ninety days after the franchise is made official.
